BAUER COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION (BCAA)

The Bauer College Alumni Association was established in support of the college and the University of Houston. BCAA believes that the “Bauer experience” should last a lifetime, which is why the group works to strengthen the relationship among and between the 50,000 Bauer alumni, current students, business community, Bauer College of Business and the University of Houston.

BCAA’s goal is to engage past, present and future alumni by hosting a variety of events, such as the annual Ted Bauer Golf Tournament and the 9/11 Day of Service at the Houston Food Bank. In addition, BCAA members participate in other activities like student recruiting, mentoring and career services events.

One of the Bauer College Alumni Association signature event is the Networking Breakfast meetings, which draw large numbers of alumni, corporate partners and supporters to the Houston City Club to network and hear a presentation from a business leader. Past BCAA breakfast speakers include UH Head Football Coach Tony Levine, H-E-B Grocery Company’s Houston and Central Market Division President Scott McClelland and Houston Astros General Manager Jeff Luhnow.

Aligning with the University of Houston Alumni Relations, BCAA follows the alumni model now in place. As of September 1, 2013, the new relationship with the University of Houston Alumni Association (UHAA) enables the BCAA to better serve Bauer alumni with rewarding career services, stronger national networks and other meaningful programs.

Upon earning a degree from the University of Houston, you are a member of the alumni association. Any donation towards the university will make you an active member. For more information, please visit us today at www.houstonalumni.com
