

ENTR/MIS 7397 RED Labs Accelerator

Summer 2016

RED Labs is the University of Houston's startup accelerator. Housed in the Bauer College of Business and supported by the Wolff Center for Entrepreneurship, we connect UH-affiliated entrepreneurs to resources, education, and mentors to help launch their tech startup.

The RED Labs Accelerator course in the long summer session provides three credit hours for completing an intensive full-time program for UH-affiliated founders who would like to launch a tech startup. The three-month program includes intensive mentoring, curriculum, and exposure to Houston's best resources. You'll work closely with a cohort of UH and Rice University startup founders in a variety of industries. The accelerator culminates with the Bayou Startup Showcase, hosted jointly with Rice University's OwlSpark accelerator. Participation in the course requires permission of the instructor.
